

Maritime Industry

Jones Walker attorneys represent domestic and international maritime industry clients in foreign jurisdictions and in state and federal courts. We also defend clients before state and federal regulatory agencies, such as the Department of Labor, the Occupational Safety & Health Administration, and the U.S. Coast Guard. Our clients include shipowners, operators, charterers, towboats and barge lines, terminals, shipyards, cargo owners, blue water shipping interests, offshore service companies, and underwriters and insurers.